WOLSELEY.

COUNCIL MINUTES.

Council re-assembled at Summerberry on Saturday the 5th inst. Present: Chairman, Comrs. Thomson, Marlin, Fotheringham, Fleming and Balfour.

Coun. Thomson reported that he had been promised $240 from N. W. grant per Mr. Richardson to be expended on improvements in the vicinity of the Qu'Appelle Valley. The chairman reported that Mr. Richardson had granted a sum of $75 to build a dam on section 10. 16-10.

Coun. Fotheringham reported that Crish's dam had not been built according to specifications.

Thomson-Balfour—That clerk prepare a by-law appointing Thos. Ellis collector of taxes at a salary of $62.50. Carried.

Balfour-Fleming—Whereas in the opinion of this council, the present method of collecting municipal taxes in the Northwest Territories is cumbersome, expensive and inconvenient.

Therefore resolved that this council petition B. P. Richardson, Esq., M.L.A., to use his utmost endeavor to have the municipal ordinance amended, during the coming session, by requiring all taxes to be paid into the Treasurer of the municipality and that the office of collector of taxes be dispensed with. Carried.

The council adjourned to meet at Wolseley for the transaction of general business and a court of Revision on the Voters Lists, on Saturday, November 23rd, 1889.

CALGARY.

—On Friday night a Norwegian, named Edward Lundgerend, committed suicide between nine and ten o'clock at the police barracks at Calgary. A slight noise was heard in his cell by the other prisoners, and on the police going to see what was the matter, they found the unfortunate Swede hanging from the bars on the door of the cell by a towel which he had wound around his neck and then raised his feet, choking himself to death. Dr. Alyn was immediately in attendance, but could do nothing. Lundgerend had been committed to the barracks by Magistrate Murdoch as being insane. He was thirty years of age, and owned a farm at the forks of Sheep Creek. Some time ago, finding his mind giving away, he made his will in favor of his brother in Sweden, then came to town, claiming police protection, as he thought some one was trying to poison him. Corner McKay empaneled a jury this afternoon, consisting of Reilly, foreman, Linton, Woods, Maw, Watson and Ellis, when they returned a verdict that deceased came to his death by suicide while laboring in an unsound mind.

—Ambrose Lapine, the lieutenant of Louis Riel in the first Northwest rebellion, and who was granted an amnesty by the Dominion Government, is now visiting relatives and friends in the province of Quebec. If there is ever a rupture between the French and English speaking elements in Canada, which many believe to be quite within the range of possibility, the French half-breeds and Indians of the Northwest would undoubtedly side with the French Canadians. Lapine is reported to be under the surveillance of Government detectives, who are closely watching the movements of himself and Gabriel Dumont.

FRINCE ALBERT.

The Saskatchewan

—The Saskatchewan is lower now than it has been any time during the summer and much lower than it has been known to be for many years.

—A rumor is current to the effect that Messrs. Oulette & Co. have purchased the large trading business heretofore carried on by Stobart & Sons of Winnipeg. Mr. Oulette is a highly respected citizen of Prince Albert, and we trust that he may meet with success in his new venture.

—Sergt. Braden, of the N.W.M. Police here, is able to be around again after several weeks illness. The Sergt. has been granted a six months leave of absence, during which time he will visit Eastern Canada and the Old Country.

A PLEASING DISCOVERY.

I had red with a uradgia and obtained no relief until advised to try Haysard's Yellow Oint. Since then I have found it to be a valuable remedy also for burns, sore throat and rheumatism.

Sunday School Lessons.

In this country where settlement is so rapid and where the population is so rapidly increasing, the importance of attending public worship, and of Bible lessons will be a great help to the study of our text. The text is set for each Sunday. The head of the family should collect its members around him and, if possible, sing some hymn and, for every day, take up each verse and try to induce each member of the family to talk about it and ask questions. The comments on the lesson will give help to make the study interesting and be valuable to all in answering questions. This should not, however, be allowed to interfere with common sense, as it is to be a service as frequently as possible. To the members of the Sunday school teacher and scholar the Bible study column comments itself by experience.

SIN, PARDON AND PEACE.

LESSON IV, FOURTH QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, OCT. 27.

Text of the Lesson, Ps. xxiii, 1-11—Commit Verses, 1, 3—Golden Text, Rom. vi, 1—Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Compiled from Lesson Helper Quarterly by permission of H. S. Hoffman, publisher, Philadelphia.

Our last lesson was concerning the everlasting covenant which God made with David to establish His Kingdom forever, and His thanksgiving to God because of His great favor; then follows the record of David's great success in subduing all his enemies on every side, because the Lord was with him and preserved him whithersoever he went; after which we read of his death to Magalhath, son of Jonathan, son of Saul, and then, in II Sam. xii, 12, is the record of David's awful sin and transgression, and the judgment of his heart, with its consequent sorrow and the reviving of forgiveness. Our lesson today is one of the seven penitential psalms, the others being the 6th, 51st, 58th, 103d, 136th and 143d, this and the last are supposed to have been written by David after that dark chapter in his life, and if we should judge by the contents of each we might suppose the latter to have been written first.

1, 2, "Transgression forgiven, . . . covered, . . . iniquity not imputed." Transgression signifies the going beyond bounds or doing that which was not allowed, sin is coming short of the mark, or leaving undone that which we ought to have done, iniquity signifies anything dishonest or perverse, and seems to refer to the natural heart, which is all wrong since the fall and manifests its perverseness in sin and transgression, so that here we read of David's confession of wrong and wrong doing, and of his being ever satisfied in God's appointed way.

3, 4, "When I kept silence." Now, that is sometimes a good thing to do, and David more than once says, "I will be silent, O Lord, for thou art great." 1, 2, "Transgression forgiven, . . . covered, . . . iniquity not imputed." Transgression signifies the going beyond bounds or doing that which was not allowed, sin is coming short of the mark, or leaving undone that which we ought to have done, iniquity signifies anything dishonest or perverse, and seems to refer to the natural heart, which is all wrong since the fall and manifests its perverseness in sin and transgression, so that here we read of David's confession of wrong and wrong doing, and of his being ever satisfied in God's appointed way.

3, 4, "When I kept silence." Now, that is sometimes a good thing to do, and David more than once says, "I will be silent, O Lord, for thou art great." (Ps. lxxviii, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 174, 175, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, 192, 193, 194, 195, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211, 212, 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 231, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 270, 271, 272, 273, 274, 275, 276, 277, 278, 279, 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308, 309, 310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 402, 403, 404, 405, 406, 407, 408, 409, 410, 411, 412, 413, 414, 415, 416, 417, 418, 419, 420, 421, 422, 423, 424, 425, 426, 427, 428, 429, 430, 431, 432, 433, 434, 435, 436, 437, 438, 439, 440, 441, 442, 443, 444, 445, 446, 447, 448, 449, 450, 451, 452, 453, 454, 455, 456, 457, 458, 459, 460, 461, 462, 463, 464, 465, 466, 467, 468, 469, 470, 471, 472, 473, 474, 475, 476, 477, 478, 479, 480, 481, 482, 483, 484, 485, 486, 487, 488, 489, 490, 491, 492, 493, 494, 495, 496, 497, 498, 499, 500, 501, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 513, 514, 515, 516, 517, 518, 519, 520, 521, 522, 523, 524, 525, 526, 527, 528, 529, 530, 531, 532, 533, 534, 535, 536, 537, 538, 539, 540, 541, 542, 543, 544, 545, 546, 547, 548, 549, 550, 551, 552, 553, 554, 555, 556, 557, 558, 559, 560, 561, 562, 563, 564, 565, 566, 567, 568, 569, 570, 571, 572, 573, 574, 575, 576, 577, 578, 579, 580, 581, 582, 583, 584, 585, 586, 587, 588, 589, 590, 591, 592, 593, 594, 595, 596, 597, 598, 599, 600, 601, 602, 603, 604, 605, 606, 607, 608, 609, 610, 611, 612, 613, 614, 615, 616, 617, 618, 619, 620, 621, 622, 623, 624, 625, 626, 627, 628, 629, 630, 631, 632, 633, 634, 635, 636, 637, 638, 639, 640, 641, 642, 643, 644, 645, 646, 647, 648, 649, 650, 651, 652, 653, 654, 655, 656, 657, 658, 659, 660, 661, 662, 663, 664, 665, 666, 667, 668, 669, 670, 671, 672, 673, 674, 675, 676, 677, 678, 679, 680, 681, 682, 683, 684, 685, 686, 687, 688, 689, 690, 691, 692, 693, 694, 695, 696, 697, 698, 699, 700, 701, 702, 703, 704, 705, 706, 707, 708, 709, 710, 711, 712, 713, 714, 715, 716, 717, 718, 719, 720, 721, 722, 723, 724, 725, 726, 727, 728, 729, 730, 731, 732, 733, 734, 735, 736, 737, 738, 739, 740, 741, 742, 743, 744, 745, 746, 747, 748, 749, 750, 751, 752, 753, 754, 755, 756, 757, 758, 759, 760, 761, 762, 763, 764, 765, 766, 767, 768, 769, 770, 771, 772, 773, 774, 775, 776, 777, 778, 779, 780, 781, 782, 783, 784, 785, 786, 787, 788, 789, 790, 791, 792, 793, 794, 795, 796, 797, 798, 799, 800, 801, 802, 803, 804, 805, 806, 807, 808, 809, 810, 811, 812, 813, 814, 815, 816, 817, 818, 819, 820, 821, 822, 823, 824, 825, 826, 827, 828, 829, 830, 831, 832, 833, 834, 835, 836, 837, 838, 839, 840, 841, 842, 843, 844, 845, 846, 847, 848, 849, 850, 851, 852, 853, 854, 855, 856, 857, 858, 859, 860, 861, 862, 863, 864, 865, 866, 867, 868, 869, 870, 871, 872, 873, 874, 875, 876, 877, 878, 879, 880, 881, 882, 883, 884, 885, 886, 887, 888, 889, 890, 891, 892, 893, 894, 895, 896, 897, 898, 899, 900, 901, 902, 903, 904, 905, 906, 907, 908, 909, 910, 911, 912, 913, 914, 915, 916, 917, 918, 919, 920, 921, 922, 923, 924, 925, 926, 927, 928, 929, 930, 931, 932, 933, 934, 935, 936, 937, 938, 939, 940, 941, 942, 943, 944, 945, 946, 947, 948, 949, 950, 951, 952, 953, 954, 955, 956, 957, 958, 959, 960, 961, 962, 963, 964, 965, 966, 967, 968, 969, 970, 971, 972, 973, 974, 975, 976, 977, 978, 979, 980, 981, 982, 983, 984, 985, 986, 987, 988, 989, 990, 991, 992, 993, 994, 995, 996, 997, 998, 999, 1000.

A BACK DOWN.

His Honor Lieut.-Governor Royal omitted the French translation of his speech at the opening of the Northwest Legislative Assembly on Wednesday at Regina. In view of the agitation against the official use of the French language, this is a tremendous backdown, especially as the party organs and politicians
throughout the Dominion have continuously declared that the agitation would soon expend itself. Last year was the first occasion on which the Northwest Assembly was opened by the reading of the Lieut.-Governor's speech in French as well as English.
It was the first session opened by Mr. Royal, and was supposed to be a precedent which would be followed out during his regime. There has been no change in the law since then, but the exceptions taken to Mr. Royal's apparent innovation
last year and the present agitation are no doubt the cause of the backdown. The intended omission was the gossip of the capital during the forenoon of Wednesday, and many wondered whether the omission was entirely voluntary on the part of Mr. Royal or whether outside influence had been brought to bear on him. It is needless to say that the omission of the French, though surprising, was none the less satisfactory to the House. If the intention was to escape criticism or to create an impression that the French privileges in the Territories are not regarded as of importance, the action of Mr. Royal will have the opposite effect, in view of the fact that the practice was only introduced last year. It was expected that the Speech would be read in French this year as well as last, but it is the unexpected that has happened,
and it is therefore the more noticeable. It will no doubt run the gamble of the press from one end of the Dominion to the other, and the party leaders will be warned that the agitation against the official recognition of a foreign language, cannot be stopped by such miserable concessions. The French language has got to go, and the sooner the better for the country.

PRAIRIE FIRES

The country is being turned up with prairie fires. We understand some action is intended to be taken by the Legislative Assembly to prevent their recurrence another year as far as possible. An effort should be made to induce the Dominion Government and the C.P.R. Co. to jointly plow and maintain a fire-break from the boundary of Manitoba to the Rocky Mountains. The Legislature should take such action as will bring about that result if possible. If sufficient protection were provided against cinders from railway engines the country would be comparatively safe from prairie-fires, if the Ordinance were thoroughly enforced against individuals.

A petition to the Legislative Assembly is in circulation in the western part of the Territories, the prayer of which is that the Legislature ask the Dominion Government to authorize the manufacture of four per cent. beer. The Assembly having declared for a vote of the people on the question of Prohibition cannot consistently endorse such a petition.

The members of the Legislative Assembly apparently mean business on the French language and separate school questions. The first day of the session notices were given of motions on these questions.

Montreal Herald: The Alaska
Fur company has impressed the world with the belief that the seals
were disappearing before the barbarous methods of the free sealers, and that their own methods alone would allow this industry to live. It turns out not only that there is no such wanton destruction as they allege,
but that it is not possible, and as one captain avers, that they themselves are the chief sinners inasmuch as they have recently adopted a plan
of capturing young and immature

hundred fathoms long.

OTTAWA, Oct. 13.—Mr. Fraser,
of the Land Guarante Company, London, England, who has been here for several days, had an interview with Sir John Macdonald and Hon. Edgar Dewdney to-day in reference to the difficulty between the Long Lake & Regina Railway and his company, particulars of which have already appeared in the Free Press. They at first held that it was purely a matter between both companies, but when Fraser informed them that the sale of land was secured by the railway company
under the grossest kind of misrepresentations, the location of the road being since changed, and that if not reflected it would be a terrible blow to Canadian investments in London, the ministers promised to give the case their attention.

THE NORTHWEST CENTRAL COUNTRY.

A correspondent of the Free Press says: "I see a cutting from the Brandon Times respecting the country through which the Northwest Central railway runs. The finishing words of the paragraph are: "Going west along the valley of the "Qu'Appelle" for 15 miles,
to the mouth of the Cut Arm Creek,
it strikes out on the boundless prairie and into districts yet unsettled,
but where the soil is equal to Manitoba." Now, as to the soil and boundless prairie, you are quite right, but they are not altogether unsettled prairie. Within a radius of 19 miles of this place, through which the Northwest Central runs,
I would estimate the population at fully 620. Here in the old colony of Summer we have only a population of about 50, the majority being bachelors, (this we mean to change in the good days yet to come) but within 6 or 7 miles we have the Hungarian colony of Esterhaz,
where nearly all the settlers are married, and where, with rather over 70 homesteads taken up, they have a population of fully 300, and the adjoining Swedish colony of New Stockholm with 40 settlers has a population of 240, reckoning 20
for scattered settlers not in either of the colonies, which makes 620 souls within a radius of 10 miles. Surely one cannot call this an unsettled country. The fact is, business has been waiting for the Northwest
Central for years, if they will only come on up and do it. Every one of the settlers here spoken of are watching and waiting anxiously for this railway, and it is to be hoped they are not again to be disappointed as they have been so often before."

Keewatin, Oct. 11.—The town is in a great state of excitement tonight over a tragedy that happened
this afternoon. During the day Sergeant Holston arrested a man on the charge of drunkenness and put him in the police station. Hearing of the arrest shortly after, James Steel and Joe Perran went to the police station and demanded the man's release. This was refused, whereupon they threw a stone at the door of the building, bursting it in. They were commanded to stop by Holston
but did not heed the warning given by him. Holston then said, "If you do not submit I will fire upon you." The men continued their threats, when Holston drew a revolver
and fired, instantly killing Joe Perran,
the bullet going through the heart,
and shooting James Steel through the hand. Steel afterwards escaped and has not since been found.
Sergeant Holston gave himself up to the authorities and was taken to Rat Portage jail tonight. A coroner's inquest was held upon the body of Perran to-night, when a verdict was returned "that Joe Perran came to his death by a pistol shot." The men implicated in the shooting were new arrivals here. Perran's age is about 25 years. He worked in the lumbering camp on Rainy River for the Keewatin Lumbering & Manufacturing Company. One shot went clean through the body and the other lodging in the small of his back.

The Legislature.

The members of the Northwest Legislative Assembly met on Wednesday at Regina, at 14:30 o'clock. His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Royal opened the Assembly with the usual honors. The following is the opening speech:

Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly. It affords me much pleasure to meet you at the opening of the second session of the first Legislative Assembly of the Territories.

Almost immediately after the cessation of your labors of last year, I commenced a series of visits to various parts of the country, which were only interrupted by a pressure of business, rendering my presence necessary at the seat of Government. I was thereby enabled to make the personal acquaintance of a large number of the people of the Territories, which was the object I had specially in view, and while doing so the resources and requirements of the country became more apparent than ever.

The opening of the several Fall Exhibitions, that I attended last year, furnished me with a favourable opportunity of meeting the thrifty and comparatively populous communities of Eastern Manitoba. Later on in the winter, I visited the beautiful district of Macleod, with its coal mines and its prosperous horse and cattle ranches. I drove along the foot-hills of the majestic Rockies to the pushing town of Calgary and was fully to concur in the opinion that this district is as well adapted for agricultural as for pastoral pursuits.

In May last I started for Edmonton, Battleford and Prince Albert, and of the wonderful resources of the Battle and Saskatchewan Rivers I can only say that he who pretends to know the Canadian North West, without having extended his travels into that marvellous country, has yet much to learn. Everywhere I was received with the most marked hospitality, kindness and true Canadian hospitality.

The opening of the railway to the Northern districts, which is now in course of construction, will effect an astonishing revolution; and the energetic pioneers of the Saskatchewan will, before many months elapse, find themselves brought, as if by magic, within a few hours easy ride of the markets of the World. The progress of this portion of the Territories which will, in the near future, be reached by another line of railway from Brandon, is thus assured, beyond all doubt, and, as these railways throw out their busy spurs on every side, this magnificent country be rapidly developed. Railways are the best pioneers of rapid settlement, and the North-West Territories is the railway ground of the future. I therefore heartily congratulate you upon an event, which will mark a new era of activity and prosperity in the history of our country.

The harvest of this year has not yielded quite as abundant a return as in 1888; the farmer has had to contend with difficulties of an exceptional character, but upon the whole it may be said that the crop has been satisfactory.

In the ranching districts the year has been most favourable, and shipments of cattle to the markets of the East and Europe have proved remunerative and encouraging.

The immigration during the season has not been as large as we had hoped for, but you may well be congratulated upon the class of settlers, who are coming from Eastern Canada and the European Continent to plant their homes in the North West.

And here I would desire to express our thanks to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for the kind manner in which they responded to the Resolution passed last Session in reference to the granting of free passage for immigrants.

Thirty-seven of such passes were issued by the Company, and Agents from almost all the Electoral Districts were sent to the East.

I have no doubt that the importance of the interests entrusted to these gentlemen was fully realized by them and that their mission will be attended with the best possible results.

The unprecedented drought, which has prevailed this year all over the Territories, has caused famine and forest fires to be more extensive and disastrous than ever. The Ordinance which you passed last Session, has proved beneficial, and many parties, guilty of criminal carelessness, have been brought to justice. I cannot here too strongly express my acknowledgments of the services rendered to the settlers by the North-West Mounted Police in their zealous and active endeavours to enforce the provisions of this Ordinance.

Peace, order and contentment seem to reign supreme at the present day in these vast possessions; criminal offences are few in number, the laws are cheerfully obeyed; while the ambition of everyone seems centred in promoting the welfare of himself or family and in making the country as attractive as possible to the over-crowded populations of the East.

The visit of His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada to our Territories has afforded the people a happy opportunity of assuring the most representative of Her Majesty of their strong sense of loyalty to the British Crown and their deep attachment to the Laws and free institutions of Canada. The Governor-General's journey across this vast extent of country will, I am sure, convince him of its unbounded resources, while the cordiality, with which His Excellency has been welcomed everywhere, will certainly result in permanent securing for Canada one more illustrious and devoted friend.

I am happy to state that the two most important items of public expenditure, that of schools and public works, have been applied with the most satisfactory results.

I shall submit to you the report of the Board of Education addressed to me by the Chairman. His Lordship the Bishop of Saskatchewan and Calgary, giving a summary of the transactions of that body for the last twelve months. This report has been prepared with care, and accurately describes the present condition of our school system. Owing to the liberal and enlightened policy of the Dominion Parliament in providing for education of the youth of the Territories, I am enabled to state that there are today in existence 164 schools, attended by 4574 children, and taught by a staff of 183 properly qualified teachers. The increase in 1888, over the preceding year, was 20 schools, 240 children; the increase in 1889 is 83 schools, 1121 children.

The provisions of the Ordinance for a higher grade of schools have been put into force and Union schools are now in operation at Regina and Calgary. If the ample educational facilities, which we now enjoy, and which are not to be found in any other country, were more widely known, I am sure it would prove an additional and powerful attraction to intending immigrants.

Although not quite in accord with the principles of constitutional Government, the system, adopted by the Legislative Assembly, of appropriating equally among the different Electoral Districts, the whole of the sum set apart for roads and bridges, to be expended under the supervision of the Member, has been found in practice to work to the best advantage. Under the regulations carefully framed by the Honourable Governor-in-Council, the public moneys have been spent in a manner productive of the greatest amount of work at the smallest cost, and in no instance have I heard of any complaint either as to the mode of laying the works or the method of payment. I have caused a report to be made of all the works carried out in each district during the past twelve months, which will be forthwith placed in your hands, and will prove, no doubt, full of interest.

Two well-boring machines have recently been purchased, in addition to the two which were lately transferred to the North-West Government by the Department of the Interior. We shall thus be enabled to assist the settlers in procuring a steady and sufficient supply of water in those districts, which are chiefly and were seriously affected by the absence of lakes and rivers. The regulation adopted for the management of these machines will be communicated to you and I need hardly say that any suggestions made by you in regard to this or any other subject, will receive my earnest and favourable consideration.

In opening the second session of this Legislature, I believe it to be my duty to call your attention to the necessity of strictly adhering to the rules, which you have so wisely adopted for the regulation of your proceedings. These rules are based upon the experience of the House of Commons of Canada, which closely follows the practice of the British Parliament, and I venture to assert that, where little or no regard is paid to such rules, the existence of efficient Government is rendered well-nigh impossible.

A statement of the General revenue fund will be submitted to you on an early day, the Territorial estimates for the year 1889-90, which will be prepared with the assistance of my Advisory Council, due regard being had to economy and the requirements of the Public Service.

Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly,

In your consideration of the various measures, which will be submitted to you, I sincerely trust that you will be guided by a spirit of broad patriotism, sound judgement and practical wisdom, worthy the solemn trust reposed in you by the Electorate of the Territories, and of which this Legislature has already given proof on many occasions. You are tracing the future of a large and wealthy country. May the Divine Providence guide your deliberations in the discharge of the most noble and important functions that a man can, by the confidence of his fellow-men, be called upon to perform.

His Honor then retired and the Assembly proceeded to business.

A motion was passed fixing the time to consider the address in reply to His Honor.

A special committee was appointed to select the standing Committees for the session.

The Assembly then adjourned for half-an-hour.

On resuming the above mentioned special committee reported progress and asked leave to sit again. Mr. Haultain introduced a bill to amend the ordinance respecting the legal profession.

Mr. Cayley gave notice of the following motions:

That he will to-morrow ask leave to introduce a bill to amend the mechanic's lien ordinance.

Also a bill to amend the Agricultural Societies' Ordinance.

Also a bill to amend the municipal ordinance.

Also a bill entitled an Ordinance respecting the property of married women in the Territories.

That he will on Friday next move for a petition to Parliament praying that sec. 110 of the N. W. Territories Act be repealed.

That he will to-morrow ask the Advisory Board if the estimates for the year 1889-90 have been made and if so what is the amount, and have the same been forwarded yet to the Government.

Mr. Betts gave notice that to-morrow he will move that an humble address be presented to His Honor praying that he cause to be laid before this House all papers, petitions, reports or other documents relating to the incorporation of the St. Patrick R. C. Separate School District No. 11 together with copies of all correspondence between His Honor and any other person or persons relating thereto either before or since the said District was set apart as a Separate School District.

The Assembly then adjourned till to-morrow.

A PORTRAIT.

Who is that young and gentle dame who stands in your gilded frame?
 O! it is a simple maiden gown who brooded
 In her happy days—
 Her eyes, blue stars in ancient glaze, seeking
 All over the world for a lover—
 O! to call sweet memories to heart—
 My grandmother before I knew her—
 —St. Nicholas

THE GRAVE-DIGGER.

A rattle of musketry came from the direction of the village. The old grave-digger, Boloski, wakened by the noise, sat up on his miserable pallet, listened a moment to the sharp, quick reports, then called aloud: "Milena! Milena!"

"Coming, father, coming!" she answered, and the little naked feet showed themselves upon the rounds of the ladder which led from the tomb.

"Did you hear them, Milena?" he cried, "the sounds of the gun shots? They are fighting in the village—a violent fit of coughing interrupted his words, and another rattling volley."

Milena had descended just as she quitted her couch of straw—a young girl, tall, vigorous and scantily draped in a brief chemise. She had thrown about her shoulders a shawl of sheepskin, but her Amazon hips showed themselves firm and beautiful under their light covering, and her virginal breasts appeared an inviting, white as polished marble, against the black fur.

"It is true, then," said she, leaping the last step; "it has come at last!"

"What, my child?" demanded the sick one. "The revolution has broken out to-night, which has been expected for some time."

"Yes, and a great misfortune it is, too," unsmiled Boloski, and he coughed again upon his couch. Milena, meanwhile, hurriedly arrayed herself in a modest petticoat and her father's doublet. Binding a sword-belt round her waist, she went out to learn what was passing.

The cemetery was situated upon a hill, surrounded by a low earthen wall, with the butt of the grave-digger standing at its gate. It was an excellent post of observation, yet Milena did not stop there, but passed on into the darkness, beneath the bare branches of the willows, upon which the ravens were already croaking, and with a single, earnest glance upon the files of tombs, with their leaning crosses. Everything was mournful and desolate, everything covered by the melancholy shroud of winter. She herself walked in snow and dark, thick that it mounted almost to her knees. The cold was terrible; the frozen breath of the night whirled and stung the skin like red-hot needles, but Milena only rubbed her face with her handful of snow and hastened her paces.

Below, in the heart of the valley, the village had delivered itself to strife and bloodshed, yet here upon the hill, all was peace. A large cross rose in the middle of the inclosure, to which was attached the figure of the dying Saviour, shining like a pendant from the thorns which crowned his brow and from the nails which pierced his hands and feet.

Milena listened intently; not a murmur for the moment broke the stillness. She stopped and gazed up at the heavens, the vast blue vault which seemed to her like a canopy, and gazed in place by golden nails, which shined and scintillated above her, while beyond there, on the other side of the forest, rode the red cloak of the morning sun.

All at once, a gleam of lightning from heaven lit her like a flash, a gleam of glowing eyeballs glared into her own.

"A wolf!" she murmured, and, with an energetic movement, wherein shone all the savage strength of the child of nature, she seized a stone from a neighboring wall, and threw herself forward. A low howl responded to the stroke of her arm, and the hungry beast was gone as it had come—a shadow through thick files of tombs and spectral crosses.

A fresh crash of musketry sounded in the distance, another, and still another. Milena traversed in a run the slope of the hill, and led to the village, and at the beginning of the first house, met a neighbor and a woman man, the wife, whom she knew well, supporting the husband, whose blood dyed the snow at every step.

"What is the matter?" demanded Milena. "The peasants of our village," replied the man, "and of Mikolai's are struggling with the insurgents down by the roads and the little wood. All goes well, however; the soldiers are sharp and do their bloody mission; the hands of the rebels fall like grain!"

"But," said Milena, and she added the peasant to place her husband in his bed and to bind his wounds, then retraced her steps to tranquillize her father.

An hour later a loud knocking sounded upon the gate of the cemetery. "What is it, Milena?" said the grave-digger again, and Milena, obeying the command, opened theicket obstructed by frost, to find before it a row of soldiers accompanied by the barons of their muskets and the blades of their scabbards sparkling in the rays of the moon.

deaths of peasants and sledges rapidly disappearing their score of dead. Her beautiful face remained impassive; pity seemed a stranger to those hard features, and yet what charm, what passion, in those great black eyes, in that sensitive nose, in that firm, severe mouth!

The mayor counted the money into her hand, placed the bottle of brandy on the knee beside her, and the sledges slowly drew on again, the peasants following in their wake as they went to their homes.

"But the poison!" demanded Milena. "To-morrow, when the work is done," and Milena took up her spade, and with a great swallow of brandy commenced to dig the first trench, crowning as she worked the words of an ancient grave-digger's song.

The sad melody, monotonous and slow as the tolling of the bell, was a dirge for the dead, the song of the peasant following in their wake on the frozen ground, the distant howling of the hungry wolves.

Another swallow of brandy, another swing of her muscular arms, and so it went till the first snow of winter fell. Milena, waiting a moment to regain her breath, gazed on the corpses.

"Twas doubtless you," said she to an old man with long white curls, clad in a felt hat and a blue coat, who stood by a little child, descended into the trench herself and gently laid him upon the ground. With the others she was not so remiss; an arm, a leg, a shoulder, anything, in short, that was left of the first one was covered with blood in the ditch, served her purpose.

"But God help me!" she cried out suddenly, as before her in the snow lay stretched a bleeding trunk. "God help me, if I can't be the first one to bury this cursed Turk and oppressor of the poor!"

And she struck the face of the head that lay beside the trunk a blow which sent it rolling like a ball to the depths below.

In the mean time, the moon rising higher and higher in the heavens, wrapped in its white light the silent graves, the crucifix, the thatched roofs of the now sleeping village and the vast and soundless plain.

And again, the second trench ready, Milena approached another corpse, and, with a single stroke of her spade, which had run from a cut in the head. At the same instant she heard a sigh—a long, shuddering breath, that came from this body. Milena drew back, her face pale, her eyes wide, and soon she saw that right body begin to stir.

He still lived, then. She was no longer a child of the snow. She caught him in her arms in order to smother him, rubbing with snow that face bearded with blood and powder, and clutching his frozen hands. In a moment his eyes opened.

"Where are you, my name upon Milena's lips was half a scream and half a cry of menacing anger. She shook her head brusquely, thrust him from her, and rose to her feet.

"You are not here either of the joy of a ghastly vengeance," when it is God that has delivered you into my hands. You betrayed me, you now belong to me. Pray to your God, who will be merciful, but from me expect no pardon!"

"You have forgotten, then, Milena, forgotten how I loved you?"

"No, I have forgotten nothing, but you, who were once my friend, are now my enemy. You have ruined me, who then, in spite of everything, left me for another. I shall not spare you, no more of that!"

"But you will not kill me!" murmured the unhappy man, who with all his strength, a calm more terrible than any other of the joys of a ghastly vengeance, when it is God that has delivered you into my hands. You betrayed me, you now belong to me. Pray to your God, who will be merciful, but from me expect no pardon!"

MAKE HOME BEAUTIFUL.

FANCY WORK THAT TENDS TO ENBELLISH OUR LIVING ROOMS.

Periors with No Upholstered Furniture. How Easy It is to Add Brightness and Beauty to Our Homes—Suggestions for Pretty and Cheap Ornaments.

Just a little work and one can give any room, however low and poorly furnished, a look of comfort. Nothing adds so much to the cheerful appearance of an apartment as to look its walls and floors the handiwork of a wife, sister or mother. A number of pretty and inexpensive articles may be made in leisure moments, a few of which may be cited in these columns.

First we have the ever needed waste basket, which is of wicker, and can be purchased at any store for a trifle. Draped with rich silk, embroidered with elaborate designs, edged with a narrow chenille and tassels, fringed. The silk is cut in the shape of a half circle, placed at the top corners. Handsome tassels ornament each handle. Line the basket with purple silk. A less expensive one may be made by gilding or burnishing the wicker and running satin ribbons of different shades in and out of the open work. A large bunch of rubber flowers or fruit attached to the front of the basket adds much to its beauty.

A very useful and pretty night-dress case may be made of pale blue liberty silk, buttoned at the back and tied like the mouth of a sack at its ends. The corners are edged with a narrow chenille and tassels. The silk is cut in the shape of a half circle, placed at the top corners. Handsome tassels ornament each handle. The Spider Lesson—Minnie's Composition. About the Suspense on Bridge—A Story Told in Rhyme of an Unfortunate Visitor Who Found Everybody Out.

One summer day Minnie wrote a story which she called "The Suspense on Bridge," and which was published for the benefit of Little Men and Women. Here it is:

A CLEVER SPINNER. Yesterday I was going to take a drink I found a spider in the glass. I told my teacher and she said I might let it be and she would let me keep it. She sent me a box of some water. Then she took a dish, filled it with water, and set the glass in the middle of it.

"Now," said she, "this spider can get away without wetting its feet."

We could not think how the spider could possibly do that. We tried to guess, but she said it would neither jump nor swim. As it had no wings, of course it could not fly. It came crawling round the top. Then it began to go round and round the rim of the glass. We kept watch, but it did not come across.

The teacher said it might not come for ten minutes, and that we could study our spelling with one eye, and keep the other eye on the spider. So we began to study, and every little while we would look up at the spider.

All of a sudden Alice called out that it was across! We were sure enough, there it was, running away!

We do not know just how the spider did it. But it must have spun a thread and let it float across the water till it caught the edge of the dish. Then it ran over on the suspension bridge it had made.

Animals That See Both Ways. Golden Pheasants have a double vision, so that they can see objects behind them as well as in front without turning around. In insects this is noticeably true. Approach a fly ever so carefully from behind and notice how it sees your movements.

The hare has this power in a marked degree. Its eyes are large, prominent and placed laterally. Its power of seeing things in the rear is very noticeable in greyhound hunting, for though the dog is running with the hare, the hare is able to judge to a nicety the exact moment at which it will be best for it to double.

Hares are another instance. It is only need to watch a hare driven invariably without hindrance to notice this. Take, for instance, those on the horse race lines. Let the driver even attempt to take the whip in hand, and if the hare is used to the work he will not even notice it.

The giraffe, which is a very timid animal, is approached with the utmost difficulty, on account of its eyes being so placed that it can see as well behind as in front.

An Unfortunate Visitor. "Good morning, my master in!" said the man to the dog.

"Good morning, my master in!" said the dog to the man.

"What is the matter with you, boy?" said the man to the dog.

"The ladies, too, are out," said the dog to the man.

"There is no one left but me!" said the dog to the man.

"There is no one left but me!" said the dog to the man.

"There is no one left but me!" said the dog to the man.

CONUNDRUMS.

Why is a farmer like a man? Hinting his stockings off he can't see. The farmer has a hole in his eye. The other's hole is in his nose.

Why is a greaser very slow? A boy with his finger to stretch. The greaser stretches a round, they say. The little fellow points a way.

Why does a woman peeky feel? Resemblance to the wind and a cold. The pecker's nose is round, of course. The other's hole is in his nose.

Why is a man who has dispersed? He could not see where he was going. The first time he was out, he was out. The second fellow's hole is out.

Why is a man who wears shoes? He is a fool who wears shoes. The man who wears shoes is a fool. The other always has his hole.

Why does a storm-stayed sailor quite resemble one who has no mind? One cannot go to sea, you know. The other cannot see to go.

Why is a very peckish lad? Like a boy who has a good, good, good. The pecker gets all his food, he gets. The man who wears shoes all his gets.

A letter writer, who is a man. Like a man who is a man. One writes a note, the other might. If interested, note a note.

Why is a man who doesn't have to get? The first time he was out, he was out. The other's hole is in his nose.

PRAIRIE FIRE.

Further particulars of the prairie fire which started from McLean on Wednesday of last week and devastated the country to the Qu'Appelle river. The farms of Messrs. Ross Fanning and Chesterfield, were damaged, the latter to the extent of $500. While the fire was raging all animals in the vicinity were terror-stricken. In one place a brown bear was driven out of a bluff. Mr. John North lost all his cattle feed, including 50 tons of hay. Mr. D. McMullen lost 6 tons, Muscovy's reserve had 700 tons burned. All the hay at Egg Lake was consumed. Mr. W. Dingwall's house and stable, Mr. A. Clement's stable and other buildings were destroyed. It is estimated that upwards of three thousand tons of hay were burned, and that many thousand dollars worth of buildings, wood and other property were destroyed.

LETTER FROM THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

The following letter was received by Mr. R. Dundas Strong:

On Train, October 7th, '89.

Sir, In answer to your letter of the 3rd inst., I am directed by His Excellency to say that it was with extreme regret that he found he was unable to stop at Qu'Appelle on his way through the other day, but as I have already informed you by wire, it will give him great pleasure to receive an address there on his return journey provided that railway arrangements permit of him doing so.

The arrangements for Lord Stanley's eastern journey will not be completed for some time, but I will not fail to give you timely notice if he finds it possible to comply with your request. Your Obedt Servt., CAPT. C. COLWELL, Gov.-Gen'l Sec.

PRESBYTERIAN SOCIAL.

The concert in aid of the Presbyterian Church choir was an entire success. There was probably the largest attendance at anything of the kind ever held in the town. The program was opened by a duet, on violin and organ, "All for Love Schottische," which was excellently rendered. The choir next sang an anthem, "Be joyful in God" in a very creditable manner. Mr. Jagger sang "The Chorister," Mrs. Guerin's rendering from "The Old Curiosity Shop," (Dickens) was given in her usual polished manner. Mr. Davies gave a song "After," which concluded the first part of the program. An adjournment was then made to the adjoining room where refreshments were served by the ladies, and too much praise cannot be accorded them for the excellent spread and for the arrangements made to satisfy the appetites of all present. The second part of the program consisted of an instrumental duet by Messrs. Purches and Davies "Sapho Galop." A recitation by Mr. J. P. Jones "Rubenstein's piano playing," which although given before a Qu'Appelle audience lost none of its characteristic brilliancy in the hands of our talented elocutionist. Mr. Davies comic song "Sam Seldom's William Goat," was ably rendered although he had to accompany himself and was well received. Mr. Guerin's recitations "The Jack-daw of Rheims," was excellent and brought down the house. A comic song "Killaloe," given by Mr. Jagger earned for him an encore. Mr. Jones recitation of "Proverbs" caused roars of laughter, being given in his inimitable style. The last piece on the program was "Above the waves" a chorus which brought out the abilities of this new and comparatively untrained choir in a very marked degree. The National Anthem concluded a very pleasant evening's entertainment. To the ladies, and to Mr. Davies for his exertions in working up the entertainment, and to the friends that assisted are due the best thanks of our organization. A word must be added about the decoration of the otherwise dilapidated looking room, which was excellent.
